Diocese of Columbus

Vol. XIII, No. 11

- Nov. 2: All Souls -

November, 1988

The general arrangement of Mt. Calvary Cemetery in Columbus can be seen in the above diagram. The northern half, or Holy Cross Division, was originally paid for by Holy Cross and St. Mary parishes and was used primarily by German families. The records of that division are complete, from the time of the first burial in 1867. The southern half, or Cathedral Division, was originally paid for by St. Patrick and St. Joseph Cathedral parishes and was used primarily by English-speaking Catholics. The earliest records of this division have been lost. The records of interments in family lots (sections A-E, G, H, and K) begin with 1919. The records of single graves begin with 1898 and cover all of the single grave sections except the eastern portion of Single Section A. A few records of payments for single graves before 1898 have been found in the lot ledger and the few tombstones in the old section have been read. These records may be presented in a future Bulletin.

The priests' circle, in the center between sections B and C, holds the remains of Bishop Watterson and at least fifteen priests of the Diocese. The cemetery office has no record of the priests' interments.

ST. DOMINIC PARISH, BEAVER AND ST. MARY PARISH, BATESVILLE
BEAVER TOWNSHIP, NOBLE COUNTY, 1819-1891
(Concluded, from Vol. XIII, No. 9)

After the departure of Father Jacquet in January of 1869, St. Mary Parish suffered through nearly five years of short-term pastorates and mission status. Until August 1869 it was under the care of Rev. Nicholas Pilger of Miltonsburg. From September 1869 (39) into May of 1870 Rev. William O'Brien was resident pastor. He was one of several priests who served such a short time in the early days of the Diocese of Columbus that almost nothing is known of them. Then until August 1870 the parish was attended by Rev. P. J. Daly of Bellaire, whose career was cut short by his death about that time. Rev. Joseph A. Laffan arrived in September 1870 and stayed twenty-six months. During this time a lot in Barnesville containing the abandoned foundations of a Protestant church was purchased and soon a Catholic church was being built there. (40) The parish was then attended by Rev. Edward Fladung of Miltonsburg until January of 1873, when Rev. William F. Hawe arrived as pastor. Father Hawe (born 1847; ordained Sept. 19, 1868; died Jan. 28, 1882 at Dennison) stayed only until September of the same year.

The first pastor of note to live at St. Mary's after Father Jacquet was Rev. Patrick M. Heery, who arrived in the autumn of 1873. He was born in Ireland around 1847 and it is known that he was a student at St. Aloysius Seminary in Columbus in the 1871-72 academic year, but his ordination date has not been found. Responsibility for St. Mary's and its missions must have been a severe test for the new priest. On June 24, 1874 he sent Bishop Rosecrans his report for the preceding year. The parish then served five hundred souls, including missions at Leatherwood (St. Patrick), Cambridge, Belmont, and Barnesville. There had been 25 baptisms, six marriages, and six deaths during the year. The church received about $500 in pew rents and he had spent about $100 on improvements, including three chalices, a ciborium, four sets of vestments, and a cope and veil. The school, which Father Jacquet reported to have 25 students in 1868, by now had been closed. Father Heery lived at the parish rectory with his mother, Mrs. Mary Heery, his German housekeeper Victoria, and one of the Gallagher boys as helper until the spring of 1882. His later assignments were at McLuney, New Lexington, and Dennison. He died March 5, 1924. (41)

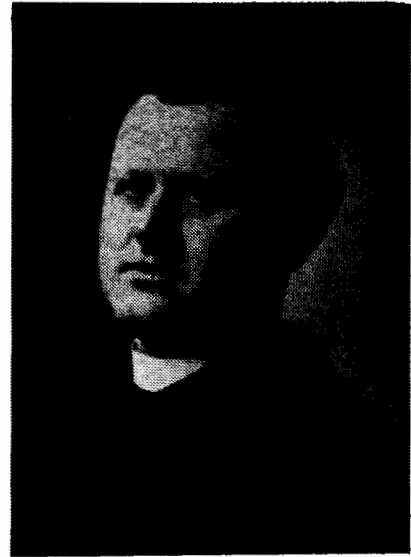

Rev. P. M. Heery

In May 1882 Father Heery was replaced by Rev. George John Montag, a native of Canal Dover, the first known native Ohioan to serve as pastor of the parish. He was born November 27, 1853 and studied at St. Joseph parish school in Dover, Mt. St. Mary's in Cincinnati, and St. Aloysius Seminary in Columbus. He was ordained by Bishop Rosecrans in Columbus on May 29, 1877. He served a few months at Steubenville St. Peter and then four years at Lancaster before coming to St. Mary's.

The twenty-nine year old pastor found conditions in Beaver Township not much different in some respects than Fathers Kundig, Reid, and their successors had found them many years earlier. The rectory was still a "log cabin", cold in winter and hot in summer. Scattered missions and the homes of the sick and dying still had to be visited on horse-back in all kinds of weather. It was said that he became known to every man, woman, and child in that region through his journeys. He did, however, have the advantage of the nearby railroad. "On account of his genial ways and his well-known devotion to duty, every railroad engineer of the Central division of the B. & O. that skirted his mission on the north would stop his train, even were it 'The Limited,' when he would wave his hat at any crossing or cut, trestle or bridge, culvert or tunnel, for they knew Father Montag was on a mission of mercy, perhaps to attend some brother railroader, smashed and broken in some freight wreck, and tradition has it up that way that Father Montag was never questioned as to fare." (42) He offered Mass in the residence of Michael Slaymon at Guernsey Mines, Guernsey County, for several years and in a hall near the courthouse in Cambridge. (43)

Rev. J. G. Montag

The only extant report made by Father Montag to Bishop Watterson was for the year ending Aug. 1, 1887. He reported 55 families at St. Mary's; ten at St. Patrick, Gibbons; 22 at Cambridge; 14 at Barnesville; five at Burrs Mills; and 12 at Trail Run; 626 souls in all. He reported that there were no baptismal fonts in the churches, but he would have them put in the newer ones. There still was no Catholic school; he taught catechism every Sunday and examined the students each month. The cemetery he reported not blessed or consecrated, but it had a new fence. The only parish society was the Rosary Sodality, the reason being a problem of location. "When I get the Church where five sixths of the Catholics live I will establish sodalities for both male & female. Until then it would be useless, as it is impossible to attend as it is now." Here we see in 1887 Father Montag's intention to move the church to Temperanceville, where the people were.

The new St. Mary's church was built in 1891 in Temperanceville on a piece of ground owned by Austin and Barbara Gallagher (transferred to the Church in 1897). The frame structure is still in use and is lovingly and beautifully cared for by the parishioners and their pastor, Rev. Charles Mascolino of Barnesville. The old brick church was razed, but Father Montag continued to live in the log house for a few years and he kept a chapel there. His niece, Clara Gallagher, who became Sister Mary Charles, O.P., was born in 1892. Her first recollection was of "sitting in the sun back of the house watching some baby chicks" on one of her visits to him. He used to drive a cart into Temperanceville to offer Mass at the new church. She was taken on some of those trips on summer days and was enthralled when he greeted the old people in German. He later moved into a rented house near the church. (44)

Father Montag was transferred to Dresden in 1897 and a short time later was moved to Ironton St. Joseph, where the work would be less arduous, but the health of this once-robust priest had deteriorated so fast that he died on November 14, 1902 at the age of only forty-nine years. His remains lie in the cemetery at Canal Dover.

With the completion of the move into Temperanceville and the eventual dismantling of the old rectory, the parish entered into its "modern" era. The parish has had numerous pastors in this century, some resident, others who lived at nearby parishes. The difficulty of the post has greatly diminished, thanks to automobile transportation and telephone communication. The old site in Beaver Township now serves as the resting place of the mortal remains of some six or seven generations of sturdy Catholic farmers. Every year in July the parish holds a picnic which serves as a homecoming and reunion for their descendants. Many have moved away from Temperanceville, but the spirit of the old families lives on; they have not moved away from the fires of the Faith which have burned there for so long.

The cemetery office has no record of burials on family lots in the Cathedral Division before 1919. As a research aid, our series of names of lot owners and dates on which charges were incurred for burials in the lots, along with tombstone inscriptions, continues in this issue. The map on page 87 shows the location of this section within the cemetery.
